Did we do a good job estimating our team's velocity?

Yes, we did a good job in estimating our team's velocity. We finished most of the tasks around the time we said we would do it.

What went wrong?

- Did we do a good job estimating the points (time required) for each user story?
 - Yes, everything was planned ahead of time, and we kind of knew the user stories that would take more time compared to others.
- Did each team member work as scheduled?
 - Each team member worked as scheduled and coordinated and distributed tasks accordingly

What went right?

-Worked well as a team and despite differing schedules and made a huge advancement in progressing the project into its first working iteration.

How to address the issues in the next sprint?

- How to improve the process?
 - Communicate better in order to schedule meetings more accordingly and with more time.
 - Have a follow up meeting with product owner in order to truly assess what other features and updates we should add to the product itself
- How to improve the product?
 - Continue to work on our learning data set in order to better train the AI.
