The following user stories were created/discussed/refined/prioritized.

- User Story #2: Draft initial wireframes and layout ideas
 - We discussed ideas for the layout, with each of us researching on our initial ideas for the app. Now that we have completed defining the core concept of the app, we can move on with further development & research.
- User Story #3: Set up the project repository and development environment
 - The repository has not been created as we have not decided what technologies we are going to be implementing fully, and thus have not set out on creating a development environment yet.

The user stories below are completed.

- User Story #1: Define and agree on the core concept of the app
 - The app has been decided to be a sort of programming testing application that teaches the user programming concepts and gets harder as you continue.
