The following user stories were completed:

- As a user, I want the tool to display a message when no suspicious content is detected so that I know the job is likely safe.
- As a developer, I want to apply basic CSS so the site is clean and easy to read.
- As a developer, I want to log all scans (timestamp + URL/text + result) so we can track usage and improvement areas.
- As a user, I want to see a loading indicator while the analysis runs so I know it's working.

The following user stories are in progress but were not yet completed:

- As a developer, I want to write unit tests for the keyword detection logic so that we can ensure it works correctly.
- As a user, I want an "About" section on the site so I can understand what the tool does.
- As a developer, I want to begin integrating feedback messages based on flagged keyword categories.
- As a user, I want to reset the form easily so I can clear my input and start over.
- As a user, I want to download or copy the analysis report so I can keep a record of the scan.

The team aligned on priorities and expectations and will carry over the current work into the next sprint for further development and refinement.
