 EFRT-1860 - Allow user to set a default credit card for subscription VALIDATED

Description

As a user, I want to be able to set a credit card to default that will get charged when I subscribe to EForT.

Acceptance Criteria

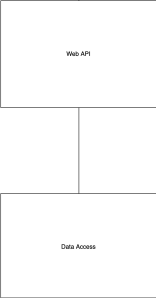

- A user should be able to press the make default card "plus" sign button.
- All other credit card statuses in the "Default Card" column should turn into X's and their "Default Card Settings" column should change to a "Add as default" plus button.
- The credit card you selected as default should now show in the table with a check mark status under the "Default Card" column and the button in the "Default Card Settings" column should change to a "Remove as default" minus button.
- When you go to add a new subscription, the card you selected as default should reflect in the modal with the last 4 digits of the default card.
- The credit card in the database should now have an "IsDefault" flag turned on for it.

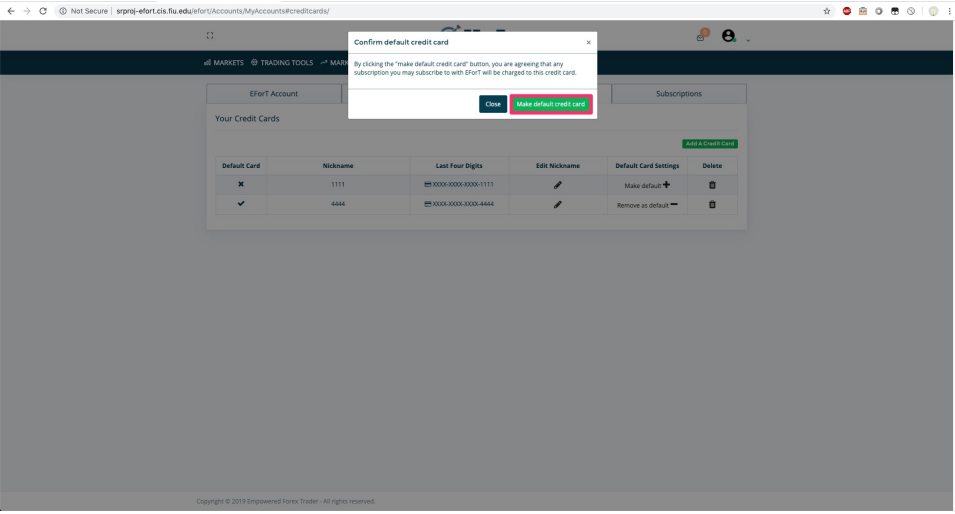

Use Case

Use Case: Set a default card

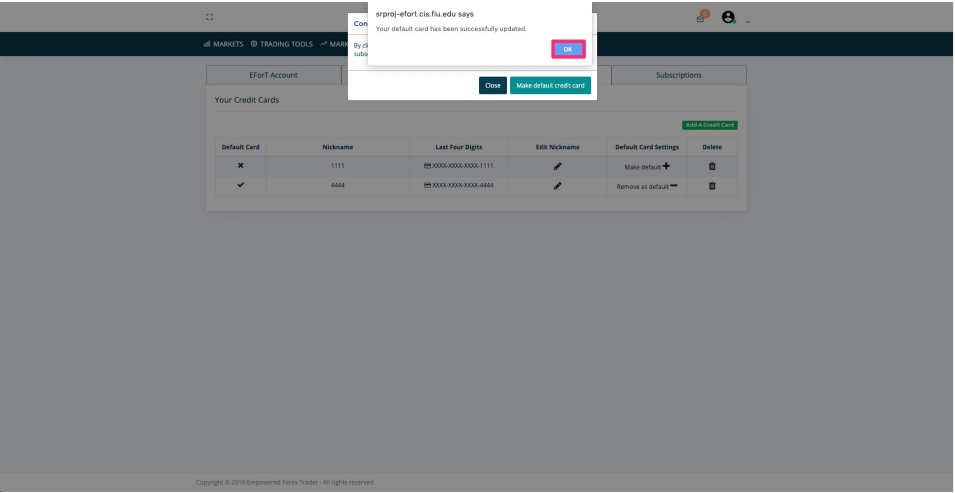

- Actor: George
- Preconditions:
 - George should have signed into EForT with his trader account.
 - George should have navigated to the My Accounts credit cards page.
 - George should already have added a or multiple credit cards.
- Description:
 - George clicks the "make default" button underneath the "Default Card Settings" column for his credit card of choice.
 - George clicks the "make default" credit card button in the pop-up which states "By clicking the make default credit card button, you are agreeing that any subscription you may subscribe to with EForT will be charged to this credit card."
 - George sees that the credit card he selected as default now shows in the table with a check mark under the "default card" column.
 - George sees that the option for his selected card under "Default Card Settings" column has changed to a "remove as default" minus button.
 - George sees that all of his other credit cards have been unselected as default and now have an X under the "default card" column.
